Report: Creating an Ancient Civilization

After studying the ancient civilizations of the Americas, imagine creating your own ancient civilization.

Compile a notebook that will explain your civilization. Include written material, drawings, maps, and charts that show identifying marks of this unique empire. Include information similar to that found on any country or people in an encyclopedia (land, climate, industries, cities, language, traditions, governments, social structure, economy, government, population, history).

Name your civilization and make an oral presentation to your classmates.
