Planning: City of the Future

Brazil's capital, Brasilia, is a very modern city built on the site of a cleared rain forest in the shape of an airplane. Imagine designing your own modern city. It can be anything you dream.

Decide on a shape for this city of the future and produce your plan. It is important that you do research so you can determine important elements of a city. You may also consult a city planning commission for important information.

Display your final design.
