

Social Studies, Grade 7

Unit III: Lesson D9

Proposal: Over-Population Solutions

One major problem of poor Latin American nations is that the food supply is inadequate for the population. While increasing food production is one necessary solution, some nations also attempt to slow population growth. Analyze how successful they have been.

Write a proposal for a United Nations committee advocating using those same methods in several Latin American nations. Include in your proposal anticipated objections to your ideas and your responses to those objections.