Map: Primary Occupations of Canada

There are two major classes of occupations – primary and secondary. Secondary occupations are generally service-oriented and are fairly equally distributed all over the world. Secondary occupations include teachers, medical workers, government workers, builders, store managers, clerks and secretaries. Primary occupations depend much more on the resources of the geographic areas.

Based on your research of Canada's products and natural resources, make a Primary Occupations Map using symbols and a key to identify locations of major occupations.
